OUTRAGES CONTINUE IN BELFAST WITH MORE DEAD

Numerous Attempts to Commit Murder are Reported—Streets Reduced to Shambles Following Reign of Terror in City.

Belfast, March 25.—Outrages are continuing in this city today. One man, one girl and one baby were shot in the same house last night. Several other killings were reported and numerous attempts to commit murder were recorded.

This promises to be one of the worst week ends marked by outrages, unless drastic efforts are made to restore order.

Street firing today has been most intense. In some sections the main streets are almost shambles as a result of the conflicts.

A mysterious raid was made on the Irish office last night. Many documents were ransacked but nothing taken.

SENATE RATIFIES FOUR-POWER PACIFIC TREATY BY FOUR VOTES

Final Ballot Late Friday Gives 67 Favorable Votes to 27 Against Covenant—Dozen Democrats Favor the Agreement.

Washington, March 25.—Japan's possession of the former Russian island of Sakhalin, off the Siberian coast was made the storm center of opposition in the senate today to the supplemental agreement which took the Japanese homeland out of the four power Pacific treaty.

Senator Robinson, Democrat, Ar. Kansas, offered an amendment to strike from the agreement, the name of Karafuto (the southern portion of Sakhalin) included in the term "insular possessions and insular dominions" used in the four power pact.

Defeat of the amendment by a majority vote was anticipated, but Republican and Democratic senators who condemned the agreement for recognizing Japan's title to the southern end of Sakhalin threatened to engage in unlimited debate again on the possibility of a future war between the two nations.

The dozen Democrats favoring ratification were: Broussard, Dial, Fletcher, Kendrick, McKeller, Myers, Owen, Pomeroy, Kamsell, Trammell, Underwood and Williams.

The four Republican opponents were: Borah, France, Johnson and La Follette.

Two absent senators, Crow, Republican, Pennsylvania, and Jones, Democrat, New Mexico, were announced as supporters of the treaty.

Washington, March 25.—The four-power Pacific treaty, the center of controversy over accomplishments of the Washington arms conference, was ratified yesterday by the senate with no reservation except the "no alliance" declaration proposed by the foreign relations committee and accepted by President Harding.

The final vote of 67 to 27, representing a margin of four over the necessary two-thirds, was recorded after the opponents of ratification had made more than 20 unsuccessful attempts to qualify senate action by reservations or amendments distasteful to the administration.

On the deciding roll 12 Democrats voted for the treaty and only four Republicans opposed it.

Dying hard, the irreconcilable element, which had opposed the treaty on the ground that it establishes an alliance between the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France, forced 33 roll calls during a four and a half hours' session set aside for final action on the resolution of ratification.

They made their best showing on a proposed reservation to invite outside powers into Pacific "conferences" affecting their interests, mustering 36 votes for the proposal to 55 in opposition.

The committee reservation was accepted in the end by a vote of 90 to 2, two attempts to modify it failing by overwhelming majorities.

It declares that "the United States understands that, under the statement in the preamble or under the terms of this treaty there is no commitment to armed force, no alliance, no obligation to join in any defense."

Although debate was prohibited during the day's session under a unanimous consent agreement, the treaty opponents raised a point of order in regard to the declaration accompanying the treaty, but not a part of it, and laid the basis for continuing their assault today when the

PLAYS WITH HIGH EXPLOSIVE; LOSES HAND IN SCHOOL

Uniontown, Pa., March 25.—Little Charley Martin, aged 7, is recovering today at the Uniontown hospital from numerous injuries sustained Friday afternoon when, while sitting on a rear seat in a country school year here, he stuck a pin in a dynamite cap and the thing exploded with terrific force. Boy fashion, he wanted to see what would happen if he stuck a pin in the cap. Teacher was holding class when suddenly there was a terrific blast over Charley's way. All the kids were thrown into a panic and Charley was hurled to the floor. He had a hand blown off. A moment later he arose badly scared and jumped out through a window and started running from the place. Miss Elizabeth Frownfield, the teacher, and Daniel Speech, an older pupil, took after the boy and after a hot chase caught him and took him to a nearby store where a doctor attended him and later he was sent to the hospital.

A dozen other kinds were more or less severely injured by flying splinters from the bursting cap.

Johnny Jones, of Cedarville, colored race horse trainer, who has seven speeders in his stable in Cedarville will move to the fairground track here April 1, he has announced.

Johnny has only two record performers. Bessie L. 2:12 1-4 and Goldie J. 2:13 1-4 in his stable but believes he has some promising wiggles among the green speeders in his stable.

Bessie L. broke down last summer after being started two or three times but she is sound again and it is believed she will be able to go again this year. Three years ago the mare was quite a sensation on the ovals in this section.

PRISON SENTENCES ARE IMPOSED UPON ALLEGED BANDITS

Terms Given Columbus Men Aggregate 95 Years.

Columbus, March 25.—Prison sentences aggregating 95 years, were imposed upon Charles Provence, Walter Van Dyke and George Richmond, local robbers, and bandits who today spent their first morning in the penitentiary.

Provence, convicted of taking part in the robbery of the Hill Top branch of the Citizens Trust and Savings Bank here 26 days ago, was sentenced to a minimum term of 25 years. He was also given an additional 15 years for holding up and robbing Foster A. Brunner, local collector of the Kroger stores.

Van Dyke was sentenced to 20 years for his connection with the hold up and robbery last December of the South Columbus branch of the Citizens Trust and Savings bank. Another sentence, 15 years, was imposed because he aided Provence in robbing Brunner.

Richmond received a 20 year sentence for participation in the Hill Top bank robbery.

Announcing the prison sentences, Common Pleas Judge Sowers declared that the only way to stop crime is to make criminals realize that "punishment is both certain and speedy."

NEED NOT BE ABLE TO RETIRE AT 45 TO BE SUCCESSFUL MAN

New York, March 25.—"It is sheer tommy rot to say that a man who is unable to retire at 45 years is a failure in life. Most men at 45 have not reached zenith of their powers. As a matter of fact some of the most useful men in the history of the world have done their best work after 45."

In these words, Rudolph M. Binder, professor of sociology in New York university, today denounced a statement made by Professor George T. Ragsdale, principal of the Louisville, Ky., police school, that the man of 45 who has not earned enough money to retire is practically ready for the discard.

"A man who has lost his power of usefulness at 45 never had much capacity at 25," says Professor Binder.

HE ADVERTISED HIMSELF INTO FAME AND FORTUNE

In just eight years with the use of small newspaper copy inserted three times each week, C. Albert Kuehnle, a painter, of Philadelphia, according to a recent article in Printers Ink, advertises himself into fame and fortune and, as it is regarded, the largest contracting painting organization in Philadelphia, and perhaps in the entire country.

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH STRIKE

Convinced That Nation is Well Stocked With Coal, Harding and Advisers Will Take No Further Action Against Miners.

Washington, March 25.—Convinced by a number of surveys that the nation is well stocked and prepared to withstand the effects of a nationwide coal strike, President Harding and his advisers will take no further action toward preventing the suspension of mining operations one week from today.

President Harding feels that the government has gone as far as it possibly can towards averting the tie up, and that it can go no further until the public interest is actually endangered.

The administration policy will be one of "watchful waiting" it was said at the White House today. Agents of the department, of justice are sprinkled through the coal fields sending in voluminous reports of the preparations that are being made to carry on the strike and these are being scanned closely by officials concerned.

The administration will seek no injunctions to prevent the walkout, nor will there be any "public appeal" by the president to the operators and miners to adjust their differences without recourse to the strike.

The principal interest apparent on the part of the administration officials is the probable duration of the strike.

A number of government officials who have closely followed the developments in the coal situation, believe the strike will be a long drawn out affair.

Officials of the National Coal Association expressed the belief that in some of the union districts the men would return to work as the result of local agreements before the strike lasts very long.

Official Washington today expressed considerable doubt as to the success which the organized mine workers would have in getting the non-union miners to walk out and thus completely tie up the nation's entire coal supply.

It was pointed out by those who are in close touch with the strike situation that when suspension of work occurs in the unionized mines the non union mines would begin production on a large scale and with plenty of work in sight with good wages the unorganized miners would require a lot of persuasion to be won over.

FIVE DAY WORK WEEK SELECTED IN FORD PLANTS

Promotion of Ideal Home Life Among Employees Is Desired.

NEED MORE MEN

Plan Will Create Job For 3,000 Additional Workers; Pay Not Cut.

Detroit, March 25.—Promotion of ideal home life among the fifty thousand employees of the Ford Motor company was given by President Edsel Ford today as the reason for reduction of the company's work week to five days. The change, which will effect all Ford plants without changing the daily wage scale of $6, will leave Ford workers two days a week free, and will create jobs for 3,000 additional men, Ford announced.

"Every man," Ford's announcement said, "needs more than one day a week for rest and recreation. The Ford company always has sought to promote ideal home life for its employees. We believe that in order to live properly every man should have more time to spend with his family; more time for self-improvement; more time for building up the place called home."

"Market demands warrant the operation of the Ford plants six days a week, but we are satisfied that the five-day week is practical and it has been adopted as a permanent policy of the company. Adjustments naturally are necessary. In equipment and in man-power the plants will have to be placed on a basis where they can take care of production in five days weekly."

"It will mean work for 3,000 more men. It will mean more machinery. The goal cannot be fully realized at once, but as soon as possible it is the aim of the company to adjust its business so that it can be carried on without work on Saturday and Sunday."

The new schedule will first be put into operation at the Highland Park plant and extended later to all factories, but probably not to the Detroit, Toledo and Ponton Railroad, owned by the Ford interests. Sunday work, however, has been all but eliminated on the railroad.

Chicago, March 25.—The discovery that an alleged "fixer" had been sworn in as a member of the special grand jury impaneled to investigate charges of corruption in recent jury trials of labor leaders charged with criminal offenses was said today to have been the real reason for the sudden dismissal of the jury late yesterday.

While the name of the man was not revealed it is understood that an investigation of how he succeeded in becoming a member of the grand jury has been launched.

Doubt as to the legality of the jury was given by state's attorney Crowe as his reason for asking its dismissal.

The discovery of the "fixer" however is held to be the real reason for the jury's dismissal.

GIVES BAD CHECK TO PUNISH FLIRT

Because he invited her to dinner without being properly introduced, Miss Margaret Murray, of Chicago, thought Morris Reingold, jeweler, should be punished for his "flirtation." So in payment for a ring she had left to be repaired she gave him a worthless check. She had no intention of "fleecing" him, she declared but his "freshness inspired revenge." The Court freed her.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR MINERS WHO TRAPPED BY BLAST

Nine Bodies Are Recovered, Believe Nine Others Are Dead.

Trinidad, Colo., March 25.—Helmetsed rescue workers continued their search today for the bodies of missing miners who were trapped when an explosion of undetermined cause occurred in Sopris coal mine No. 2, of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, six miles west of this city late yesterday.

Nine bodies had been recovered early this morning and according to company officials all hope of rescuing alive any of the remaining nine men entombed has been abandoned.

The calling of the strike was unanimously approved in secret session after President Frank Farrington, of the Illinois miners had treated his fellow committeemen to a display of verbal pyrotechnics, in which he predicted that the strike would end in inevitable failure and possible disruption of the union. He coupled with this the declaration that the miners in Illinois would stand by and still be striking when others, now clamoring for the walkout, would be seeking peace by districts and states.

Late last night a conference was held at the rooms of President John L. Lewis in which Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the brotherhood of locomotive engineers is believed to have pledged "moral" support to the union miners in their fight with the operators. Neither of the leaders, however, would authorize a statement of the orders of the railway labor board no one there believes that the railroad men will go to the extent of striking in support of the miners demands.

Washington, Mar. 25.—President Harding and the house yesterday resumed "amicable relations" for a time at least. Acting on direct appeals from the executive and Secretary of State Hughes, the house appropriations committee declined to insist that the house direct the president to withdraw troops from China, the Philippines, Hawaii and the Panama Canal zone.

It voted to eliminate a provision requiring this action in the army appropriation bill against which a challenge of constitutionality had been hurled by administration forces and which President Harding told the houses was an attempt to usurp his power.

Chairman Anthony, of the subcommittee on appropriations agreed to an amendment offered by Rev. Rogers, Republican, of Mass., that the provision would be stricken from the bill.

The committee action was taken partly upon assurances from several members that Secretary of War Weeks had agreed to greatly reduce the troops now in the Philippines, Hawaii, China and the canal zone.

London, March 25.—The Pall Mall Gazette, one of the mouthpieces of the Lloyd George government today commented as follows on the ratification of the four-power pact by the U. S. Senate yesterday:

"That isolation is impracticable is gradually percolating into the American mind."

"Leaving the allies to do all the laborious work, then asking to share in the proceeds is too indecently inequitable for any self respecting nation to persist in."

Chicago, March 25.—Charlotte Molin, is the "world's greatest torreador." The expression is quoted because the words are the words of Charlotte. He admits it.

In order to torreador in proper fashion, however, Charlotte must be provided with a bull who will fight. Charlotte can't be rough with the bull unless the bull will be rough with him.

It was Charlotte's intention to give Chicagoans an exhibition of how the national sport of Spain, Mexico and a few other countries is conducted. He planned nothing but promised something snappy.

A crowd assembled in the stock yard amphitheatre and a robust looking, corn-fed bull was shoved into the spotlight. Charlotte flaunted a flaming scarlet banner before its eyes. A matador pulled its tail. Another matador tickled its ribs with a pointed pole.

Did he bull charge pugnaciously at Charlotte? He did not. He charged the other way. For the remainder of the engagement Charlotte and his aides de camp sought vainly to overtake a bull that always was just going away from a given point as they arrived at it.

When his breath and patience gave out, Charlotte paused and remarked sententiously:

"Carumba—those Chicago bull—he no fight."

WILL CALL OUT ALL NON-UNION MINERS APRIL 1

If Workers in These Fields Answer Call, 800,000 Will Be Idle.

LAY FINAL PLANS

General Tie-Up of Coal Industry Is Now Certain.

Cleveland, March 25.—With the resolute determination that there shall be no settlement of the strike called for April 1, in all anthracite and bituminous coal fields of the United States and Canada until the coal operators of the central competitive field, embracing western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, meet with union miners in a wage scale conference members of the policy committee of the United Mine Workers of America today are speeding to their widely scattered homes to make last minute arrangements for a general tie up of the coal industry.

At the last minute a decision was reached to call out at the same time miners employed in non-union fields and if the workers in these mines heed the call of their organized fellow-workers, approximately 800,000 men will quit work. Officials still on the ground here today predict that a large number of these will join the strikers. "It's a question how long they'll stick," said one leader, "but I believe that more than half of these men will unite with us in forcing the operators to come to terms."

The calling of the strike was unanimously approved in secret session after President Frank Farrington, of the Illinois miners had treated his fellow committeemen to a display of verbal pyrotechnics, in which he predicted that the strike would end in inevitable failure and possible disruption of the union. Only One Survives Plane Disaster On Atlantic

Five Passengers On Ill Fated Miss Miami Perish Meagre Reports Indicate Following Rescue of Pilot By Steamer On Friday.

Miami, Fla., March 25.—The graphic story of a battle with death on the tossing Atlantic with only the flimsy pontoon of a hydroplane between them and the water—a losing battle—was told here today on the arrival of the submarine chaser No. 154, which met the tanker William Greene, off this port, this morning and brought to shore the half dead form of Robert Moore, pilot of the ill-fated Miss Miami.

The story of how the big flying boat kept afloat for nearly 48 hours after being forced to descend on account of a broken propeller, and how the five passengers became exhausted through exposure and panic two jumping into the water to end their misery, and the story of how two women died in his arms, was related by the pilot.

The story was not gleaned from Moore when he reached here. He was in such a serious condition that he was rushed to a hospital for treatment. The story of the fight for life was relayed to Miami through members of the crew of the tank steamship which picked up Moore from the wreck of his plane last night.

The submarine chaser, in command of Captain Jones, reached Miami at 10 a. m. and the pilot, then delirious was taken to Riverview hospital.

The fate of Moore's five passengers, Mr. and Mrs. August Bulte and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Smith of Kansas City and Mrs. J. S. Dickson, of Memphis, was told by the captain and members of the crew of the tanker. It was related to them incoherently by Moore after he was picked up.

The Miss Miami broke a propeller blade soon after leaving Miami early Wednesday, Moore told them, and was forced down. It rode the waves safely, however, and drifted northward in the gulf stream.

No trouble, he said, developed until Thursday morning when something struck the keel of the boat and it began to leak. Men and women took turns bailing water.

Thursday night one of the women became crazed and jumped overboard. Her name was not given by Moore. Shortly afterwards one of the men

JURY IN STOKES CASE FAILS TO REACH VERDICT

The jury in the second degree murder trial of Frank Stokes, colored, of this city, was discharged by Common Pleas Judge Martin in Dayton at six o'clock Friday evening, after it had failed to reach a verdict.

The jury had been in deliberation since nine o'clock in the morning. Illness of D. H. Hinsey, one of the jurors, caused Judge Martin to dismiss the jury Hinsey was ill during the trial but remained with the jury. The jury was allowed a recess Thursday night until Friday morning in the hopes that Hinsey would improve, but he developed a violent fever Friday afternoon.

Stokes admitted killing Wilbur Odin colored, of this city, a fellow student in vocational training at Wilberforce University, but alleged he shot in self defense. Odin was killed Thanksgiving afternoon at the place of John Million, 3006 E. Second St., Dayton.

According to testimony given at the trial, Odin and Stokes quarreled. Odin was shot while advancing toward Stokes. Odin was said to be a big man, while Stokes is small. He claimed that Odin brandished a knife when he was shot.

More than ten votes are said to have been taken by the jury. On the first ballot, it is said, ten persons voted for acquittal and two for conviction for second degree murder. The jury according to report stood seven for conviction for manslaughter and five for acquittal when discharged.

The sentence for manslaughter may be fixed between one and 20 years. For conviction for second degree murder the sentence is life imprisonment.

BY LENORE

You can't look upon a collar as merely something to finish the neck of a dress and let it go at that. At least equally important is the question of its becomingness as a frame for the face.

A clear skin and blue eyes—now what will bring them out so distinctly as the rich, deep blue of some of the organdie and linen collars shown in smart shops? Or what will so readily contribute that demure look that some flappers love to effect, as a gingham collar? These come in sets with cuffs, if you go in for a complete set of things.

And if you happen to have one of those characteristic faces that is sharp—contoured and angular—featured, try out for yourself the flattering effect of the soft filmy collars in organdie, batiste or net, embroidered or lace-trimmed, as against these severer styles.

For young, shapely shoulders, the period of 1830 collar shown at the bottom of the sketch, will make an adorable complement to any frock.

INTERNAL CLEANLINESS

Sometimes in discussing beauty treatments it is necessary to talk of such unromantic and unpleasant but necessary subjects as the cause and the cure of constipation. This is really most necessary for the whole tendency of modern civilization is to do away with exercise and hard physical work, two preventives of such a condition, and to substitute for the coarse-grained laxative, old-fashioned foods, easily digested articles of diet which either do not give the system enough work or which are constipating.

The easiest way to cure constipation is to take a pill. This cures it for a day and then the condition returns again as bad as ever. After a time the system becomes so accustomed to this particular type of pill that it no longer responds to it, and a larger dose or a new variety of medicine has to be tried. Yet even this method is better than no method at all, for most of our minor and serious troubles come from impurities in the blood directly traceable to faulty elimination. If you have been suffering from such a condition for some time I would advise you to take an enema every day or every other day for two or three weeks. This is to flush out the entire bowel system and to give you a fresh start. But I do not advise you to get the habit of internal bathing, which is weakening and almost as dangerous as taking pills. To keep the system in good condition eat whole wheat bread instead of white, eat a bowl of cereal or porridge with your breakfast, eat at least one orange or apple every day, and at least one generous portion of some fresh vegetable.

COMMUNITY SUPPER LARGELY ATTENDED

Two hundred residents of Orient Hill were guests at the community supper, served at the Orient Hill School, Friday evening.

The affair was one of the largest and most enjoyable of the many parties given in the community.

The guests of the evening brought well-filled baskets, the supper being served on long tables arranged in one of the school rooms, yellow candles in crystal holders being the only decoration.

After the supper, a short program was given, consisting of a violin solo, by Miss Mary Noble, a reading, "Forty Years Ago," by Mrs. C. S. Stearns, and a duet by Miss Dorothy Clark, and Miss Helen Hurley.

The committee in charge of the supper and program was composed of Mrs. U. E. Clark, chairman; Mrs. Sherman Spahr, Mrs. J. J. Stout, Mrs. Charles Cross, Mrs. Howard Light-hiser, Mrs. James Bostwick and Mrs. Hugh Barnes. Mrs. L. S. Hyman, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitmer were among the guests of the evening.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

NOT FOR FAME

It is true that every worth-while man has something deeper in his inner make-up than a mere desire for fame.

Recognition—yes. Because from recognition comes appreciation—for which men have gladly given their years and strength.

But the deer and the man of achievement cares little for fame.

Behind the hunger in every heart for a chance to stand for something in the world that will benefit some one else, there is that other somewhat unconscious desire that the reward shall return without any playing of brass bands or public applause.

There is in the writings of Stevenson a paragraph so simple and yet so noble and full of all that a man should strive toward, that I am going to give it to you here:

To be honest, to be kind—to earn a little and to spend a little less, to make upon the whole a family happier by his presence, to renounce when that shall be necessary and not to be embittered to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation—above all, on the same grim conditions, to keep friends with himself—here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy.

Could fame give anything so fine?

It seems to me that one of the finest occupations of this life is found in the tilling of the soil. There a man may come in daily contact with all the beautiful forces of Nature and live next to her heart. He may take from the ground that which shall nourish his body and from the inspiration of all about him that which shall build him in soul.

I am uplifted when I read the story of Burns and how he rose to dizzy heights because of his genius. Yet all this fame and acclaim is forgotten when I read his simple and lovely poems about a Mountain Daisy, or a Field Mouse, or Highland Mary.

The thing that makes Burns so loved today—a hundred years or more since fame came to him—is the fact that he didn't need fame to make him great. Nature did that job unaided.

If you will think about what you do as something to be helpful, and forget about the results, you will get something infinitely greater than fame. And far more lasting. For fame is nothing unless it is built up from service.

ONLY ONE SURVIVES PLANE DISASTER

This fate of the man and woman seemed to depress the remaining two women of the party. They gradually became weaker and finally fainted away. For seven and a half hours, Moore told his rescuers he supported them as best he could. In the meantime another of the men had slipped off the plane. This left only August Bulte, vice president of the Laramie Flour Mills Corporation, and Moore, who used the pump frantically. Yesterday both men were so exhausted they were no longer able to use the pump and the boat, swamped by a huge wave, overturned.

Bulte and Moore scrambled back up the side of the overturned craft and Moore fastened a rope about his waist to support himself in case he too, should become too exhausted to hold himself to the boat.

Hope of rescue seemed dimmer and dimmer. Finally Moore stood up on the wrecked plane and began to wave a small handkerchief in the hope that some one would see it. Bulte was praying for help. Finally, Moore said, Bulte gave up and handed a roll of $2,000 to the pilot with the words: You are younger than I am and may be able to come through. I cannot hold on any longer.

And Moore was left alone as Bulte slipped over the side of the boat and disappeared beneath the waters.

The two women whom Moore had held in his arms, died Wednesday night he said, and he let them slip into the water.

Moore's incoherent story as related here said that nine boats had passed the wrecked plane as it was tossed about on the sea. One of them he said, came close he could read its name, but none he said, saw the plight of the craft.

When placed aboard the tanker Moore was taken in charge by Mrs. J. Stewart Williams, wife of a consulting engineer. She was a passenger aboard the boat on her way to Tampico to join her husband.

Captain William Macsmuth, of the tanker, told comrades of Moore who were aboard the submarine chaser that it must have been an act of Providence that impelled him to go a point off his course, resulting in his sighting of the overturned flying boat and its sole survivor.

Kaiser's Actions In Last Hours of World War Told In New Book; Wanted To Stay

Berlin, March 25.—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, now sojourning in Holland but once the most powerful war lord in Europe, went into exile in the cool gray dawn of November 10, 1918, "not a trembling coward, seeking safety, but against his own will and after being persuaded his flight was the only way to prevent a most bloody civil war in the Fatherland," according to a book soon to be published by General von Eisenhart.

PLAYLETS THURSDAY EVENING ARE WELL RECEIVED IN CITY

Xenians are looking forward to the second presentation to be given for the benefit of the Greene County Library, owing to the success of the first performance given at the McKinley Auditorium, Thursday evening.

The second program will be given the latter part of April. An audience that taxed the capacity of the auditorium witnessed the three playlets presented by the members of the Senior Woman's Club, Thursday night.

The characters of each playlet were well chosen, and added equal support to its success.

The first playlet was "The Workhouse Ward," by Lady Gregory, the characters being taken by Miss Allen, Mrs. Espey and Miss Davidson. Between the first and second playlet, Mrs. Lawrence Shields gave a group of Spanish and Mexican songs, dressed in costume, which were well received by the audience.

The second playlet, was "Suppressed Desires," by Susan Glaspell, the characters being taken by Miss Trebein, Mrs. James Wilson, Third, and Miss Marjorie Flynn. A group of original songs, by Miss Davidson, was given following this sketch, being one of the most delightful features of the program.

The last playlet was "The Twelve Pound Look," by Barrie, Mrs. Frazer, Miss Prueh, Mrs. Prince and Mrs. Shields taking the parts.

"I am going to stay here (at Spa, Belgium, German General Headquarters) with my army to the very last and throw my life into the balance," the Kaiser exclaimed to General von Gontard, his adjutant general, the evening of November 9, the book relates. But a trick was played upon the war lord by Baron von Gruenau, legation counselor, making the Kaiser believe his troops were mutinying and might carry him as a prisoner of the revolutionary government. Then the Kaiser capitulated.

The book is to be issued to the public shortly. What effect the disclosures will have on German public life is a matter of speculation, but the author, in a preface to the book, gave his reasons for writing the book thus:

"CONSIDERED IT MY DAMNED DUTY"

"I considered it my damned duty toward my countrymen."

General von Eisenhart-Rothe emphasized the volume was written without "fear or favor" and that it is based chiefly on a secret inquiry by a "court of honor" composed of the leading generals and statesmen participating in the events of the fateful November days. All statements quoted in the book are on file in the witnesses' handwriting it is stated. Part of the story is told in the Kaiser's own words, and thus for the first time a record of events, corresponding in some measure to the departure of Napoleon to Elba, is given.

On November 9, 1918, Field Marshal von Hindenburg and General von Groener, the successor of Field Marshal Ludendorff, recited long reports to the Kaiser, in the presence of other distinguished officers. Von Groener declared the army was no longer behind the Kaiser. The latter replied sharply:

"I demand this statement from you and the field marshal in black and white—but not until you have asked the chief commanders and the commanding generals."

"FIRMLY INDICATED INTENTION TO REMAIN"

In spite of the most urgent advice of Hindenburg and all other members of the Kaiser's entourage for the war lord to leave Spa, then German General Headquarters, the Kaiser, until 10 o'clock on the evening of November 9 "firmly indicated his intention to remain," the book relates.

The author also states the Kaiser was unshaken from steady "long distance telephone drum-fire" messages from Berlin demanding his abdication.

When General Count Schulenburg bade the Emperor adieu at 2 o'clock in the afternoon the Kaiser said:

"I shall remain King of Prussia and won't abdicate. I shall remain with my troops."

At four o'clock the Kaiser ordered his adjutant general, von Gontard, to make accommodations at the Villa Fraineuse—the Kaiser's private dwelling at Spa—for his entire military suite, and also to stock it up with arms, ammunition and a fourth of a battalion of shock troops from the neighboring houses where they were quartered. After making these plans for a possible siege, the Kaiser planned to dine aboard the court train and to return to his villa at night and communicated this intention to Count Dohna, the famous commander of the raiders Moewe, who was then an adjutant. Other adjutants who heard these orders, the author states, were Hirschfeld and Isenau.

"GOOD LORD, ARE YOU BACK AGAIN?"

Shortly afterward the generals from G. H. Q. returned to the Kaiser with an order again urging him to leave. The Kaiser greeted them with "Good Lord, gentlemen, are you back again? I've written the Crown Prince I'm staying with the army."

Then von Hindenburg and Admiral von Hintze, then Foreign Minister at Berlin, begged the Kaiser to consider his departure to a neutral country in an extreme emergency, since his continued presence with the army might become impossible. They told the Emperor the situation was becoming worse each hour and that it would be indefensible "if the Kaiser were dragged to Berlin by mutinous troops and delivered to as a prisoner to the revolutionary government." Hintze telephoned the Kaiser from Berlin.

The Kaiser became highly excited the author states. He immediately granted von Hintze permission to take steps for a possible reception in Holland, but "clinging desperately to the idea of remaining at Spa."

At 7:30 p. m., when the Kaiser was riding to dinner aboard the train, he told Adjutants Hirschfeld and Isenau:

"I'LL FIGHT SHOULDER TO SHOULDER"

"If only a few of my gentlemen remain loyal to me I'll fight shoulder to shoulder with them to the very last, and if we are all killed I've no fear of death. Besides I would be deserting my wife and children if I fled. I cannot do that. I remain."

As he was sitting down to dinner

"I am going to stay with my army to the very last and throw my life into the balance. They are trying to make me leave my army. That's an unheard of idea. It would look as if I were afraid. My wife bravely stops in Potsdam amidst the rioting there. I shall remain here."

Prince Eitel Friedrich, one of the Kaiser's sons, had just telephoned his father, giving "love and greetings from the Kaiser," the author remarks.

Then appeared the man whom the author seeks to blame for the Kaiser's final decision. Counsellor of the Legation Baron von Gruenau. At 10 p. m. Gruenau called at the train's dining room and told the Kaiser he had been instructed by Foreign Minister von Hintze by telephone and also by von Hindenburg to urge the Kaiser, not to postpone his departure for Holland, since only by a quick surprise action would such a trip be successful. Gruenau told the Kaiser that all the roads were blocked by mutinous troops tearing the epaulettes from their officers and that not even an auto could pass them and that further hesitation by the Kaiser would be fatal.

ADVISED KAISER TO LEAVE EARLY

General van Plessen, who hitherto had opposed the Kaiser's departure, listened to Baron Gruenau and thinking that the latter acted on von Hindenburg's instructions, now advised the Kaiser to leave early the next morning.

"The Kaiser had been worn and wearied down and saw no other way out," the author states. The book shows that while von Hindenburg advised the Kaiser to prepare to leave in an extreme emergency, he had nothing to do with the Kaiser's actual departure. This part of the volume links up with recent correspondence made public between the Kaiser and Hindenburg written a year ago.

While the volume shows the collapse of the army on the field of battle was utter and absolute, it reveals that the breakdown on the homefront was not nearly so bad as heretofore painted.

"PARTISAN DIRTINESS."

There are statements in the minority report of the House Ways and Means Committee on the Bonus Bill that outrage elementary decency and that are unworthy even of a "hill-billy" orator out in the timber of the back townships stump-speaking to the "one-gallused boys" at the "forks of the creek." One of these is the gratuitous insult to George Harvey American Ambassador to Great Britain.

Woven into a tissue of abuse and pre-campaign ratings, dealing in general with the sins and iniquities of the Republicans rather than with the bonus measure, the minority report charges that the Republican party still maintains a blasphemous, bibulous bootlicker at the Court of St. James to besmirch with his drunken banquet babble the high war purposes of the American people and the inspiration of the American soldiers.

Some alliterative soul doubtless phrased that with much pride; but any five men, whether they be Democrats or Republicans, who will offer a minority report containing any such statements, are doing an indecent, outrageous and indefensible thing. It approaches the recent indecency of another minority member who was rebuked recently by the House for inserting un-mailable matter in the Congressional Record.

Such political eye-gouging and fouling places the Congress of the United States and the American people in a strange light before other nations of the world. George Harvey was named by the President and confirmed by the Senate as the American representative and spokesman of one freeborn people to another. Here is a peculiarly cowardly, cheap, nasty attempt to befoul the character and reputation of an American official for dirty partisan ends and mudslinging campaign purposes. And what, anyway, has Harvey to do with the bonus?

Here in the United States we understand the low order of political intelligence that conceives such things and the low order of voting intelligence at which they are aimed. We discount such tactics and make allowances for them, for we know the kind of mind that works in that way. Unfortunately for us and for the men who represent us abroad, the people of other countries have no way of knowing that the very common, or garden, variety of two-by-four politicians are responsible for them.—Public Ledger.

OVERGOVERNMENT.

Whenever we have occasion to look through the list of offices and bureaus at Washington and consider the extent to which government now inspects, regulates and directs private business and private affairs or is urged to do it, we fall to wondering what our wise and long-headed forefathers would have thought of it all. One of the chief causes of their revolt against Great Britain was the inquisitions and restrictions of the royal government. "He has erected a multitude of new offices," says the Declaration of Independence in enumerating the grievances of the colonists against King George, "and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance." When the fathers drew up our Constitution they were jealous of the power of the central government to interfere in local affairs or to restrict the liberty or the personal responsibility of the citizen. They were probably somewhat too solicitous about the matter, for the tendency for at least a century has been to increase the authority of the central government; but we often wonder if that tendency has not gone far enough.

It is true, of course, that the "new offices" of government have been established with the consent of the people, and many if not all of the extended activities at Washington have their excuse in the desire of well-intentioned persons to use the great powers of government either to establish justice and uniformity of law throughout the land or to aid in extending and improving the industries by which we live. But granting all that, is there not danger in depending too much on government and in too greatly restricting the right of personal initiative?

U. S. BUYS EMBASSY BUILDING IN CHILE.

The American Government has purchased the palatial residence of former Senator Augusto Bruna, fronting Forestal Park, which will be used as the American Embassy Building here. The price paid was $146,000.

An appropriation of $136,000 was made several years ago for an embassy site in Santiago, but the purchase was delayed owing to difficulties in finding a suitable residence location within that amount. Negotiations for the Bruna property were begun two months ago, and last week the American residents here, including Ambassador William M. Collier and his embassy attaches, subscribed $10,000 to make up the amount required with the understanding, it was said, that it would be refunded if the Government later appropriated the additional $10,000.

Mr. Collier said, however, that he received word from Washington Monday to the effect that the additional $10,000 was available from Government funds, making the local subscription unnecessary.

This is the first embassy in South America to be owned by the American Government.

BRITISH S. P. C. A. IN FRANCE.

Officials of the Royal British Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have appealed to Americans and English on the Continent to discourage holding the proposed bull fights at Cannes.

It is reported that the Mayor of Cannes is repairing the arena for the bull-fighting season and since the majority of the residents are English or American the society advertises today asking the visitors to "refrain from attending and thus encouraging such cruel, revolting spectacles." Moreover, Americans and English are asked to protest personally to the Mayor of Cannes against "Such degrading exhibitions."

The same society has vainly protested against the unsportsmanlike pigeon shoots at Monte Carlo and sought to prevent the bird vendors at Nice from selling live fancy birds which had been blinded so they would perch on women's shoulders without flying off.

Great Britain has more women workers in proportion to its population than any other country in the world.

THE LAMB DRESSED IN LIONS CLOTHING

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

The home of Mr. Riley Frey at Trebeins was destroyed by fire this morning at eight o'clock. It was a two-story frame of about ten rooms, and stood across the river from the station. The circuit court which was in session in this city, yesterday, finished its work, but did not hand in a report. From Xenia they will go to Dayton to attend the judicial convention.

The Xenia Driving Club held its first meeting of the season last night, and it was decided to lease the fair grounds for six months the coming summer.

Prof. Austin Patterson, who has been enjoying a vocation of a week at his home in this city, left this morning for Terre Haute, Ind., where he will resume his duties as an instructor in chemistry at a college in that city.

REQUESTED RECIPES

E. B.: "Please publish a crisp waffle recipe. I have had many, but all like a pancake dough. Those I refer to are very light, and practically without moisture."

Answer: The crisp waffles you refer to are raised waffles, made as follows:

Crisp Raised Waffles: Scald one and three-fourths cups of milk at nine o'clock in the evening; add to it one teaspoon of salt and one tablespoon of butter and let cool till lukewarm, then add one-fourth cake of compressed yeast dissolved in one-fourth cup of tepid water, and also add 2 cups of bread flour. Beat well, cover the bowl with a clean cloth, and let stand overnight in a moderately warm place to rise.

In the morning add to it the yolks of two eggs well beaten, then the egg-whites stiffly beaten. Cover and let rise again till needed. If you wish to make these waffles within a couple of hours of lunch or supper, use one whole yeast cake instead of the quarter of a cake called for above; the whole yeast cake will raise the batter in one and one-half hours.

Have your waffle iron heated on both sides and well greased before you fill it. In filling, put one tablespoon of the batter in each compartment near the center of the iron, and the mixture will spread to just fill the iron. When properly heated before the batter is put into it, the waffle iron should be turned almost as soon as it is filled and covered.

L. B.: "Have you a recipe for cake frosting made with sugar, milk and cocoa?"

Answer: You did not say whether you wished a cooked or an uncooked icing. Here are both kinds: Cooked Fudge Icing or Filling: Put one cup of granulated sugar into a small saucepan with 2 heaping tablespoons of cornstarch, 2 tablespoons of cocoa powder and 1 cup of either milk or water; mix thoroughly and heat, letting cook five minutes after coming to a boil. Then remove the pan from the fire, add a generous lump of butter and one teaspoon of vanilla and spread on either a cold or a hot cake. This is not a very thick icing, but a delicious one.

Uncooked Chocolate Icing or Filling: Put 1 cup of confectioners' sugar into a bowl and add 2 tablespoons of cocoa powder. Mix well, then add 1 teaspoon of vanilla and enough milk (drop by drop) to make it a stiff paste. Be sure to stir well as you add the milk, or you will get too much in. If this happens, simply add more of the sugar to make stiff. Spread on a hot cake.

A Housekeeper: "Please print a recipe for chicken salad." Answer: Chicken Salad: Cut cold boiled fowl, or remnants of roast chicken, into small dice and "marinate" (that is, saturate) these by letting them stand in French dressing for a few hours. Then add to them an equal quantity of fresh celery also cut small, and moisten all with Mayonnaise dressing.

E. S.: "I am a young wife, only 17, and would like to have a nice spongy layer-cake recipe."

Answer: Layer Cake: Cream half cup of butter with 1 cup of sugar; add beaten yolks of 2 eggs, half teaspoon salt, and 1 cup of sweet milk. Now sift together 2 teaspoons of baking powder and two and one-half cups of flour and add these to the other mixture. Then add 2 stiffly-whipped egg-whites and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Have your oven hot. Bake this batter in two round layer-cake pans for 25 minutes.

EASY PHILOSOPHY.

Philosophy is easy, when one is stacking high, and one can hand out breezy remarks to those who sigh. For weeks it has been raining out here where I abide; and people are complaining as through the mud they slide. Jim Whitaker was roaring around the other night; "the way the rain keeps pouring," he grumbled, "is a fright. The silly rain keeps swatting my roof with mournful sound; my garden sass is rotting and spoiling in the ground; I should be out devoting my time to honest toil, but everything is floating, I cannot dig the soil." "Cheer up," I cried, "old croaker, your grumbling is a crime; this rain is sure a soaker, but it will end in time. And when it's done and ended the blooming earth will thrive, and you will say it's splendid and fine to be alive." Next morning I lamented, "This rain storm has its gall; its measly spite it's vented on my retaining wall. The wall is washed to blazes, that wall of pure cement; the language has no phrases to cope with this event! Oh, willow, willow, waly! And likewise lackaday! And once I blithered gayly, ere hard luck came my way!" Jim Whitaker came snooping around my blasted home, to see if I was whooping an optimistic pome. "I see," he said, "you're cheesey as any other guy; philosophy is easy until hard luck comes by."

NARCOTICS CONFISCATED BY POLICE OF DAYTON

Dayton, O., March 25.—Narcotics worth at least $3,600 are in the hands of the police today following the confession of Eddie Bolin, alias Eddie Shevlin, who was rearrested last night after paying a fine of $200 for selling dope. He is now held for the federal authorities. He confessed to buying morphine, cocaine and opium of a Chinaman, in Windsor, Canada, and smuggling the drugs to Detroit and then to Dayton.

"SOCIETY OF SHIFTERS," LATEST FAD IS DENOUNCED AS DANGEROUS, ORGANIZATION SPREADING IS WORD

New York, March 24.—The Society of Shifters, an organization whose password is "I have paid my checks", and whose purpose, according to the by laws is to "get something for nothing," is under investigation today by officials of the vacation society.

The society, regarded at first as a "flapper fad," has spread rapidly and today is known to have invaded hundreds of communities including several colleges and universities. Officials of the vacation society declare the doings of the "shifters" are no longer harmless but have become "dangerous to the purse and to the morals of every self supporting girl."

"The prospective member," according to Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Smith, president of the vacation society, "is made to believe she is being asked to join a universal secret society to promote cordiality, particularly between the sexes. Unfortunately this is too often the case. The clip a paper clip which they wear as a pin serves as an invitation to flirtation."

They went to Shaver's home to get him to direct them about the mine. "WIRED WIRELESS" NEW INVENTION FOR HOME USE

Washington, March 25.—A new development in radio whereby music, news, lectures and other forms of speech can be received by attaching the usual receiving instrument to the electric lamp and eliminating the antenna, as well as relieving the congestion of wireless broadcasting in the air, is announced by Major General George O. Squier, Chief Signal Corps officer of the army, its inventor.

The first public demonstration of the new "wired wireless" was conducted in the Signal Corps headquarters. The whole operation of installing the device for receiving consisted merely of removing a bulb from a lamp on Major General Squier's desk, inserting the receiving plug in the same manner as electric fans, vacuum cleaners and flatirons have been attached to the lighting circuits. The broadcasting station, it was explained was connected with the lighting circuit through a lamp receiver at another point.

The invention is believed by Signal Corps officers to offer a great utility to owners of electric lamps everywhere, the Major General said, could bring to every home where there was an electric lighting system the concerts broadcasted through the air and heretofore received through antenna.

Another advantage reported by the inventor is the relief to congestion of the air that it offers, to a modified degree, and for a solution of which Secretary Herbert C. Hoover recently called upon the National Wireless Conference.

Broadcasting over great distance by use of the invention is believed to be possible, but that use has not been attempted. The idea was conceived less than a week ago, Major General Squier said.

TO GIVE EXHIBITION
Maynard, March 25.—William Scott, this town's strong man, who says he can lift from 2500 to 3500 pounds, is scheduled to give an exhibition in St. Clairsville Saturday evening as a result of a wager.

GREENE COUNTY NEWS

BEAVERCREEK

One of the most enjoyable occasions of the season was the Community Banquet given at the K. of P. Hall on Tuesday night in honor of the boys and girls' basketball teams of Beaver High School, who performed so satisfactorily at the Antioch tournament on Saturday.

About one hundred and sixty of the patrons and friends of the school were in attendance to aid in the informal program.

Rev. Moyer acted as toastmaster calling upon each member of the two teams each of whom responded in an off hand and unique manner which was a surprise and delight to all present.

Rev. Moyer introduced the program an imaginary dream in which small animals appeared like unto rats and they grew and grew until they became Beavers. This is interpreted as representative of the Beaver basketball teams.

Beavers are peculiarly fond of water, therefore the tournament management permitted each team to take a bath from which the boys emerged 15 to 7 and the girls 13 to 5. The Beaver boys next had a dip at the Yellow Springs from which they arose 17 to 8, while the girls took Jamestown in 10 to 9.

Xenia now came on the floor in their second game, having defeated Ross 26 to 2 earlier in the day. In this second game they were matched against Beaver in the third. This was the sensational game of the tournament and resulted in a victory for Beaver 31 to 28.

Beaver's fourth game was played against Jamestown's third resulting in a victory to Jamestown 31 to 18.

Beaver has won 16 games and lost 5 and forfeited 1. Games lost as follows to Yellow Springs, Steele, North Lewisburg, Sabina and Jamestown. At the close of the banquet the teams presented Coach Ankeney a fine white sweater in recognition of his services.

The Beaver boys' teams have played 12 games in the Antioch tournaments in the last four years and lost but 2 games.

Cincinnati, March 25.—For the third time a jury disagreed late last night in the trial of John D. One of the more durable and at the same time attractive materials with which to build one's home is brick and the person who chooses this material will never regret it. Today the brick house is rapidly growing more popular and particularly since home builders have worked out so many artistic and unusual combinations of materials and designs.

The house shown today is a fine example of a brick home that has around it an air of quiet dignity and charm. A home in fact that any one could well be proud of and one which passersby at once would note and remark. "That's a pretty house. Who lives there?" The first thing one notices particularly is the graceful symmetry of this house. The architect certainly "did himself proud" when he planned this model, for the eye that revels in symmetry will find nothing here to jar and all to please and ravish. Note the sweeping curves of both the sun room and the dining room which are on opposite sides of the house and which vitally assist in achieving that air of symmetry and grace.

Entrance to this home is by means of a central porch into a wide hall at the right of which is a library with colonnade, bookshelves, fireplace, etc. At the rear of this is the sun room. There is a main central stairway also separate stairs from the kitchen. On the left of the main hall we find the living and dining rooms. In the rear are the kitchen, pantry, maid's toilet and service porch. The kitchen and pantry are finished in white enamel, while the three principal rooms on this floor are finished in missioned oak.

Upstairs there are four large bright sunny bed rooms, the two front ones having their own dressing rooms, and there is a bath room, a lavatory, ample closet space and a deck which is nice for promenading on bright sunny days. The woodwork in this story is of birch, white enameled. There is also an attic which is unfinished. The bath room is equipped with a shower and every other modern and up-to-date fixture. Another added and delightful feature of this house is the billiard room which is directly under the living room. There is also a full and complete basement, a laundry, drying room, furnace room, etc.

As shown here the exterior walls of this house are of hollow tile and texture brick, light texture brick being used for the face of the exterior walls with trimmings of dark texture brick, thus making an exceptionally charming effect. The roof is of red or green tile. The total width is fifty-two feet and the total depth is thirty-nine feet, these dimensions being exclusive of the porches. Between $14,000 and $17,000 will be required to build this home, according to the estimated cost, this being exclusive of the plumbing and heating.

NEW JAMESTOWN GROCERY CONCERN OPENED SATURDAY

The Roc-Hil Provision Co., a new Jamestown grocery concern, named from the combined names of the partners in the business, Ernest Rockhold and Delvin Hilton, was formally opened to the public Saturday in the business room formerly occupied by the M. I. Hilton grocery.

M. I. Hilton has sold his interest in the Hilton grocery to his son, Delvin Hilton and William Rockhold has released his interest in the Rockhold grocery, formerly located near the Hilton store, to his son Ernest Rockhold, and the two young men, who are cousins, are owners of the new company.

The Hilton grocery has been closed for repairs during the last two weeks, while business was transacted in the Rockhold stand, now abandoned. New fixtures and store equipment were added to the Hilton store for the occupancy of the Roc-Hil Provision Company and hundreds of visitors crowded the store at the formal opening Saturday. The interior decorations are in white.

Women visitors were presented with shopping bags, men were given cigars and there were trinkets for children at the opening. The Jamestown Orchestra furnished music throughout the day as the store was auspiciously opened to the public. A number of grocery demonstrators were also obtained for the opening day.

BRITISH PREMIER CUTS VACATION DUE TO TROUBLES

London, March 25.—Official announcement was made today that Lloyd George has shortened his vacation by one week and will return to No. 10 Downing Street Monday to take charge personally of the Irish situation.

It is understood here that the government is taking a grave view of the matter, and that King George sent a request to Crichton, Wales, asking the premier to return at once.

It is said that the king is showing the gravest anxiety over the turn that events in Ireland have taken in the past forty eight hours.

It has been intimated here that the government has no faith in the ability of Sir James Craig to preserve impartial order between the Catholics and Protestants. There are now fourteen battalions of British troops in the Ulster government area, the government is fearful that these may be used in an impartial manner, which action would result in virtual chaos.

The government is making every effort to put a sudden end to what is now conceded to be a fanatical war raging in North Ireland. Michael Collins, who was expected to arrive here tonight, has sent word that he cannot leave Dublin at the present time. Griffith and Dugan will arrive Monday, however, to lend their services in the cause of mediation.

RICKARD CASE ENDS MONDAY

New York, March 25.—The defense will complete its case in the abduction and criminal assault charges preferred against "Tex" Rickard by 15-year-old Sarah Schoenfeld on Monday. There was no session of court today.

MYSTERY CLEARED UP

Nelsonville, March 25.—Through the arrest of Asa Webb, 16-year-old school boy, the police have cleared up the mystery of half a dozen recent burglaries. Webb confessed that he broke into homes and business places and spent the money enjoying trips over the state.

There will be no inheritance tax on the estate of George W. McMichael, according to a journal entry in probate court. The gross value of the estate is $1211.26 and the debts and costs of administration $849.21, leaving $362.05 for distribution. George W. NOT SURPRISED IF PREMIER RESIGNS SAYS ENGLISHMAN

New York, March 24.—R. D. Blumenfeld, editor of the London Daily Express who is here on business declared today that he would not be surprised to hear of the retirement of Premier Lloyd George any time. In a sweeping interview that covered all phases of British politics, Mrs. Blumenfeld made some interesting sections, among them the following: Premier Lloyd George wishes to retire.

Hostility against the premier's policies, especially among the shopkeepers and middle classes is growing.

The British liberal party is dead. The conservative (Tory) party is steadily gaining strength.

If the premier retires now he can come back later stronger than ever.

Either A. Bonar Law or Lord, Birkenhead would succeed Lloyd George.

The prince of Wales is the most popular man in Great Britain.

Woman have proved a failure in the house of commons.

"At the present time what England wants is a man who will not govern at all," said Editor Blumenfeld.

LOCAL RED CROSS WORKER IDENTIFIES MYSTERY MAN IN SPRINGFIELD AS INMATE OF INDIANAPOLIS INSANE HOME

Through the efforts of Miss Louise B. Shaffer of the Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, "Earl Williams of Fairfield," mystery man who has been puzzling Springfield authorities attempting to learn his identity, has been positively identified as Earl Sterrett, 150 N. Illinois St., Indianapolis, and an inmate of the Julietta Home for the Incurable Insane at Indianapolis.

Miss Shaffer became familiar with Sterrett's case when he was cared for here by the Red Cross last May, and she recognized in the stories told by "Williams" to Springfield authorities, a similarity to the stories of Sterrett. A telephone conversation with officials of the Springfield city hospital, practically established the identification which was confirmed by a visit to the hospital by Miss Shaffer Friday.

Officials of the Julietta home have been notified of Sterrett's presence in Springfield, and will come to Springfield to return the patient to that institution. They told Springfield Social Service League investigators that Sterrett had been permitted to leave the institution to go home with his mother, Mrs. Frances Sterrett, and that he had run off from his mother's home.

Until Miss Shaffer communicated with Springfield authorities they had no trace or clue to the identity of the "mystery man." Sterrett came to the attention of authorities in that city when he attempted to telephone for an ambulance when overcome by an attack of epilepsy, and was rushed to the Springfield city hospital. There he told officials that his name was Earl Williams and that he lived with his father, Louis Williams, near Fairfield. He was suffering from a double fracture of the skull, which he said he suffered when he fell from the top of a traction car on which he was working January 12.

Investigation showed that there was no trace of Earl Williams or Louis Williams near Fairfield, and that the traction company had never had an employee of that name. The name "F. Davis," printed in a coat sleeve, also further mystified the authorities who were without further clues to work on when the identification was established by Miss Shaffer.

Sterrett was admitted to the Julietta Home August 14, 1917, suffering from epilepsy and a double fracture of the skull.

ture of his skull, physicians pronouncing him incurable. Two years ago he escaped from the institution, and was apprehended at Covington, Kentucky.

Last Decoration Day, Sterrett was arrested here by police when he acted queerly on the streets, and was turned over to the Essey Hospital. Because he said he had been in the service, the Red Cross was notified and Miss Shaffer began an investigation of his case. She has never been able to verify or refute his story of being an ex-service man. He declared at that time that he had received his injury in falling from a traction car between Xenia and Springfield, but he also told other confusing stories.

Sterrett was committed to the Dayton State Hospital by Judge Marshall in probate court temporarily on special permission, and he was there more than two months while Miss Shaffer attempted to learn his identity. Officials of traction lines on which he said he worked, Springfield physicians and addresses in Dayton he gave, were found to be myths, but the name of Dr. Allen Caldwell on a note in the man's pocket was the first clue received.

The medical directory showed that there were two Dr. Allen Caldwell, one in the south and one in Kentucky, the latter admitting in a letter that he had treated Sterrett the day before he was picked up here. Indianapolis police furnished the information that a man answering Sterrett's description had escaped from the Julietta Home and a letter to the Home verified that information and the description of Sterrett, or "Frank Davis," which was the name he gave local authorities.

Sterrett has a particular faculty in getting his first names correct generally in telling his different stories and also in a similarity of stories. He gave his name to Springfield authorities as "Earl Williams," his father's name as "Louis Williams" and his mother's name, as "Frances Williams." His real name however is Earl Sterrett and his mother Frances Sterrett.

Physicians say Sterrett would have but three chances in ten of recovering from an operation on his skull to relieve pressure on the brain, which causes insanity, and that he would still be a victim of epilepsy.

FOUR DANCING FEET

BY JANE PHELPS

INTRODUCING THE TWO GIRLS CHAPTER 1

Gertie Cummings hugged her knees as she brooded over her ill luck. Her thin face was serious, her brown eyes troubled, older looking by many moons than when they smiled. All the years seemed to be mirrored in her eyes—her fear, her dread of them. She had commenced to realize her inability to cope with the world and still hold her ideals, dream her girlish dreams.

A sound of footsteps, quick opening and closing of the door, and Lilly Arnold, her chum, was in the room. Lilly was blue-eyed, slim and blonde. Her bobbed hair, clung in ringlets about her face and neck, her blue eyes danced. She hastily undid a parcel she carried, unrolled a pair of lace-thin stockings, and holding them out at arm's length exclaimed:

"Ain't they scrumptious?" At the same time she ran a hand into one of them and drew it smoothly over her arm.

"They sure are the real things, Lilly! Where did you make the raise?" Gertie relaxed, and pending over picked up the other stocking which had dropped to the floor. She also ran her hand into the silky length of it, a feeling of envy stirring faintly within her.

"You remember that tall guy I danced with last night at the Palace Garden?"

"Yes. He was nice looking, Lilly. Not handsome, but he had an honest face."

"Well, he said he was going to send me a box of candy, and I told him no girl could afford to eat candy nowadays; it made us too fat. But I wasn't going to let him off easy just for that. So I told him if he was dying to give me something, and couldn't sleep on account of it, to give me a pair of silk stockings, that I had worn mine full of holes dancing with him. It was true, too. I showed him."

"Oh, Lilly Arnold! You never did!" "Didn't I? Ain't them stockings the proof I'm tellin' the truth? He was too funny. He asked what kind I wanted. I told him the thinnest ones he could find. He thought I was trying to be economical because I asked for thin ones. He said he would get them as thick as I liked. I told him no one but old ladies and freaks wore them thick any more, and see what I got!"

"I wish I was as smart as you, Lilly."

"You got too high ideas. Gert! Come down off your perch. Sweat shop and cabaret dancers ain't got much show in this town. Not much chance to run against a decent guy. That kind don't want us. They want the girl that lives home and has a parlor to let them sit in, horse hair furniture don't phase them as long as a girl has a ma and a pa. I mean the kind you are—always mooning about."

"But, Lilly, I always have had a sort of notion that perhaps—just perhaps—I would have a nice little home and perhaps—"

"Listen to her rave! You are a pipe dreamer for fair. Come down to earth, Gert. There ain't no such things for girls like us unless we marry some boob and take in washing to say we could get married. It's the real good girls that don't have to put up no bluff, or the real bad ones that know how, or else them society girls—they could get away with murder. But us! Why, Gert, no one thinks we amount to much, and I guess if they did it wouldn't make any difference cause they wouldn't believe it."

"But we know we are good."

"That don't get us nowhere." "It makes us feel better, like ourselves better. Say, Lilly, it must be awful for a girl that knows she's bad, I don't see how they dast go to sleep. Then: 'I ain't no good, Lilly, not like you. How I wish I had a pair of them stockings. Mine look like woolen ones they are so thick. And honest they are silk for about six inches, the rest is cotton.'"

"Well say, Gert! Forget all that dream stuff you was talking about—a home and everything. Make the boys pay for your society when you dance with them."

"I'll try, Lilly."

Lilly gave her chum a look of half loving disdain half disgust. She was no older than Gertie, yet she could look out for herself and get all that was coming to her, why couldn't Gertie? Lilly considered her chum weak and laughed at her. Yet deep down in her heart she rather envied her, and her ability to dream. Lilly Arnold had no illusions about life. She knew it turned a stony face to girls like herself and Gertie. Long ago she had determined to snatch all she could get from it and—still remain honest.

She had set herself a harder task than she realized.
